Jerry Weichman, PhD – Teen Psychologist, Author and Parenting Expert

Sex. Depression. Substance abuse. Cyberbullies. Academic issues. Eating disorders. Violence. Anxiety. Relationships. Dr. Jerry Weichman - practicing clinical psychologist, author and parenting expert - provides teens and young adults with an honest, direct approach to dealing with the behavioral, social and family issues they face on a daily basis.

Dr. Weichman's Newport Beach-based practice is overflowing, his parenting seminars are standing room only, and his youthful, irreverent attitude have earned him a cult-following of teens, parents and school administrators. Dr. Weichman's first book for teens, "How to Deal," was published in June 2008.

Prior to opening his own practice in 2005, Dr. Weichman was the clinical director at The Kramer Center in Newport Beach. During this time, he developed in-patient clinical treatment programs for disturbed or troubled substance-abusing teens. Dr. Weichman began his career as the on-site psychologist for Springview Middle School in Huntington Beach, CA. Dr. Weichman specializes in behavioral, social, peer, familial, and individual problems specific to teens and young adults.

Dr. Weichman received his bachelor of arts in psychology from the University of the Pacific, and his master of arts in psychology and doctorate of philosophy in clinical psychology from the California Graduate Institute.
